Grey House Publishing Announces the 2023/2024 edition of Educators Resource Guide

Grey House Publishing is proud to announce the publication of the 2023/2024 edition of Educators Resource Guide. This comprehensive resource is designed to provide educators, administrators, and other education professionals with immediate access to a unique combination of educational resources, along with important educational statistics and rankings.

Educators Resource Guide includes associations, publications, trade shows, workshops, and training programs. This resource is designed not only to help educators advance professionally, but also to give them the resources they need to help their students, their schools, and their state meet educational standards. It provides tools for classroom and career management, as well as resources that truly make a difference in job, school, and student performance.

Listings are thoughtfully organized in 13 chapters and nearly 100 subchapters, making information significantly easier to access than the unfocused data available online or scattered in dozens of different sources. Updated statistics and rankings are designed to help states, school districts, and individual educators better understand their educational environment, crucial to making informed decisions on careers, curriculum and funding.

Educators Resource Guide includes over 6,200 listings in Section One. Over 1,200 records have been updated and dozens of new records added since the last edition. This section includes 7,925 key contact names, 3,055 e-mail addresses, 4,612 web sites, and 3,753 fax numbers, and is categorized as follows, for easy research: Associations & Organizations, Conferences & Trade Shows, Consultants, Teaching Opportunities Abroad, Financial Resources, Government Agencies, Professional Development, Publications list, Publishers, Research Centers, School Supplies, Software, Hardware & Internet Resources, and Testing Resources.

Section Two has been completely revised for this edition, now being called National & State Statistics, and includes hundreds of dynamic pages of education statistics, with better visualization of the data, and comprehensive coverage of topics such as teacher openings during the coronavirus pandemic and challenges and strategies recovering from the pandemic; family characteristics; pre-primary, elementary, and secondary education; postsecondary education; population characteristics and economic outcomes; international and comparisons; indicators of school crime and safety; revenues and expenditures for public elementary and secondary education; changes between 2011 and 2019 in achievement gaps; and state profiles from the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP).

Section Three: Indexes contains three indexes to help the user save as much research time as possible: an Entry & Publisher Name Index with an alphabetical list of both entry names and the companies that publish the listed material; a Geographic Index featuring state-by-state listings of all entries; and a Subject Index organized by core subjects plus Special Education, and Technology.

Print purchasers get two years of free online access.

When libraries activate their free online access, patrons can access this wealth of information in just minutes. With the keyword search, quick search and expert search on GOLD, users can quickly and easily find the information they're looking for. Plus, researchers can do quick or in-depth searches, save their searches, save search results, sort search results, view company profiles, download contact sheets, click through to email and web hotlinks, and so much more. Call (800) 562-2139 to set up a tour of the online database.

This new edition of Educators Resource Guide is an invaluable reference source for seasoned professionals in the education field, for those at the beginning of their education careers, and for all who service and support the education industry, making it a welcome addition to the reference collections of school districts, public libraries, and academic libraries nationwide.
