Description: The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has the vital mission of leading the unified national effort in securing the nation from the many threats it faces while preserving the freedoms citizens enjoy. This includes preparation for and response to all hazards and disasters. Significant steps have been taken to create a unified and integrated Department, focusing on efficiency, accountability, and transparency to enhance performance and become better equipped to protect the nation. The Departmental missions are: prevent terrorism and enhance security; secure and manage borders; enforce and administer immigration laws; safeguard and secure cyberspace; ensure resilience to disasters; mature and strengthen the Homeland Security Enterprise.

US Department of Homeland Security

Washington, DC 20528

Phone: 202-282-8000URL:www.dhs.gov/countering-weapons-mass-destruction-office

Description: The Countering Weapons of Mass Destruction Office is an organization created in 2018 by President Trump. Its aim is to prevent attacks against the United States, specifically from weapons of mass destruction. The office works to anticipate and identify any possible threats; strengthen ways to detect said threats; and work with health security planning in the event of any attacks. Previously, the Domestic Nuclear Detection Office filled this role. However, it was consolidated into the Countering Weapons of Mass Destruction Office.
