

“This new set of nine Weiss Ratings Consumer Guides will be invaluable to an aging population and children of elderly parents. Weiss Ratings does not accept compensation for their ratings so companies cannot influence their ratings reports. Recommendations and information on automobile, homeowners, term life, long-term care, and Medicare supplemental insurance are covered as well as elder care choices, Medicare prescription drug coverage, variable annuities, and health savings accounts. Websites and addresses are included. Written in an easy-to-understand and straightforward style and providing worksheets to aid decision making, this set will provide guidance in a variety of areas. Weiss Ratings come with free online access with a current bi-annual subscription. This set is recommended for large public libraries.”

“Each title in the set, which is a part of the Financial Ratings Series, covers a topic with background information and step-by-step worksheets, making the content clear and easy to understand. Any graded entries receive a letter grade, with an explanation of what the grades mean, and the entries also contain contact information. A FAQ in each volume covers basic questions related to that volume’s topic. The following volumes comprise the set: Automobile Insurance, Elder Care Choices, Homeowners Insurance, Long-Term Care Insurance, Medicare Supplement Insurance, Medicare Prescription Drug Coverage, Health Savings Accounts, Term Life Insurance, and Variable Annuities. Consumers seeking information on these topics may find them of use.”
